Name: _____

In your break out room:

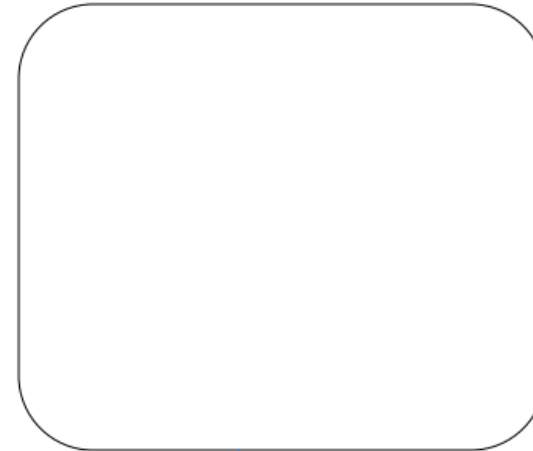

1. Read the passage.
2. Use the passage to make an inference about John Henry.

Li'l Willie grinned. "The machine's drill busted. They have to take time to fix up a new one. You're almost even now, John Henry! How're you feeling?"

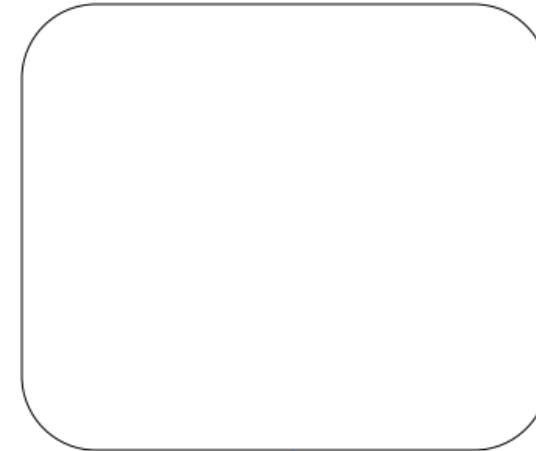

"I'm feeling like sunrise," John Henry took time to say before he flashed one of his hammers down against the drill. "Clean out the hole, Willie, and we'll drive right down to China."

Above the clash of his hammers, he heard the chug and hiss of the steam engine starting up again and the whine of its rotary drill biting into rock. The sound hurt John Henry's ears.

John Henry ran his big hands over the handle of his hammer, feeling the strength in the wood and in his own great muscles.

“A man's a man,” he said, “but a machine ain't nothing but a machine. I'll beat that steam drill, or I'll die with my hammer in my hand!”

“All right, then,” said Cap'n Tommy. “We'll set a day for the contest.”

1. Read the passage.
2. Answer the question using inferences and the RACE method.
3. REMEMBER: Write each step of the RACE method in a complete sentence to make a paragraph.
